People make the difference What the STOCKMEIER Group distinguishes from others

The STOCKMEIER Group is a family-owned company in the third generation. For over 90 years we have been thrilled by the idea of strengthening this company on a sustainable basis in order to ensure success for it in the long run. Only if we are successful for a long term, we can act as independent family business also in future.

We have specialized in products and services in all fields of chemistry ever since this company was established. The products are standardized, even exchangeable in some segments. Then, what is it that makes STOCKMEIER different from our competitors?

It's people that make all the difference. This is what we at STOCKMEIER are deeply convinced of. People maintain close contacts with customers and suppliers and thereby develop a profound knowledge of the market. In the shortest of time they find for our customers exactly the products of best quality that they need for their specific applications. In this way, they open wider sales avenues for our producers because we know where demand for their products is generated.

The people at STOCKMEIER optimize the quality of products and processes in a never relenting effort. As a team, they develop solutions that further the goals pursued by our partners and by us. This creates a strong feeling of confidence in our customers and suppliers that with their decision for STOCKMEIER they have opted for the right partner.

The enthusiasm for the work they do often also enduringly engulfs our business partners. Emerging from that is what we call strong links: Sustainable, close relations with our customers and suppliers. These relations grow on a basis of high mutual trust.

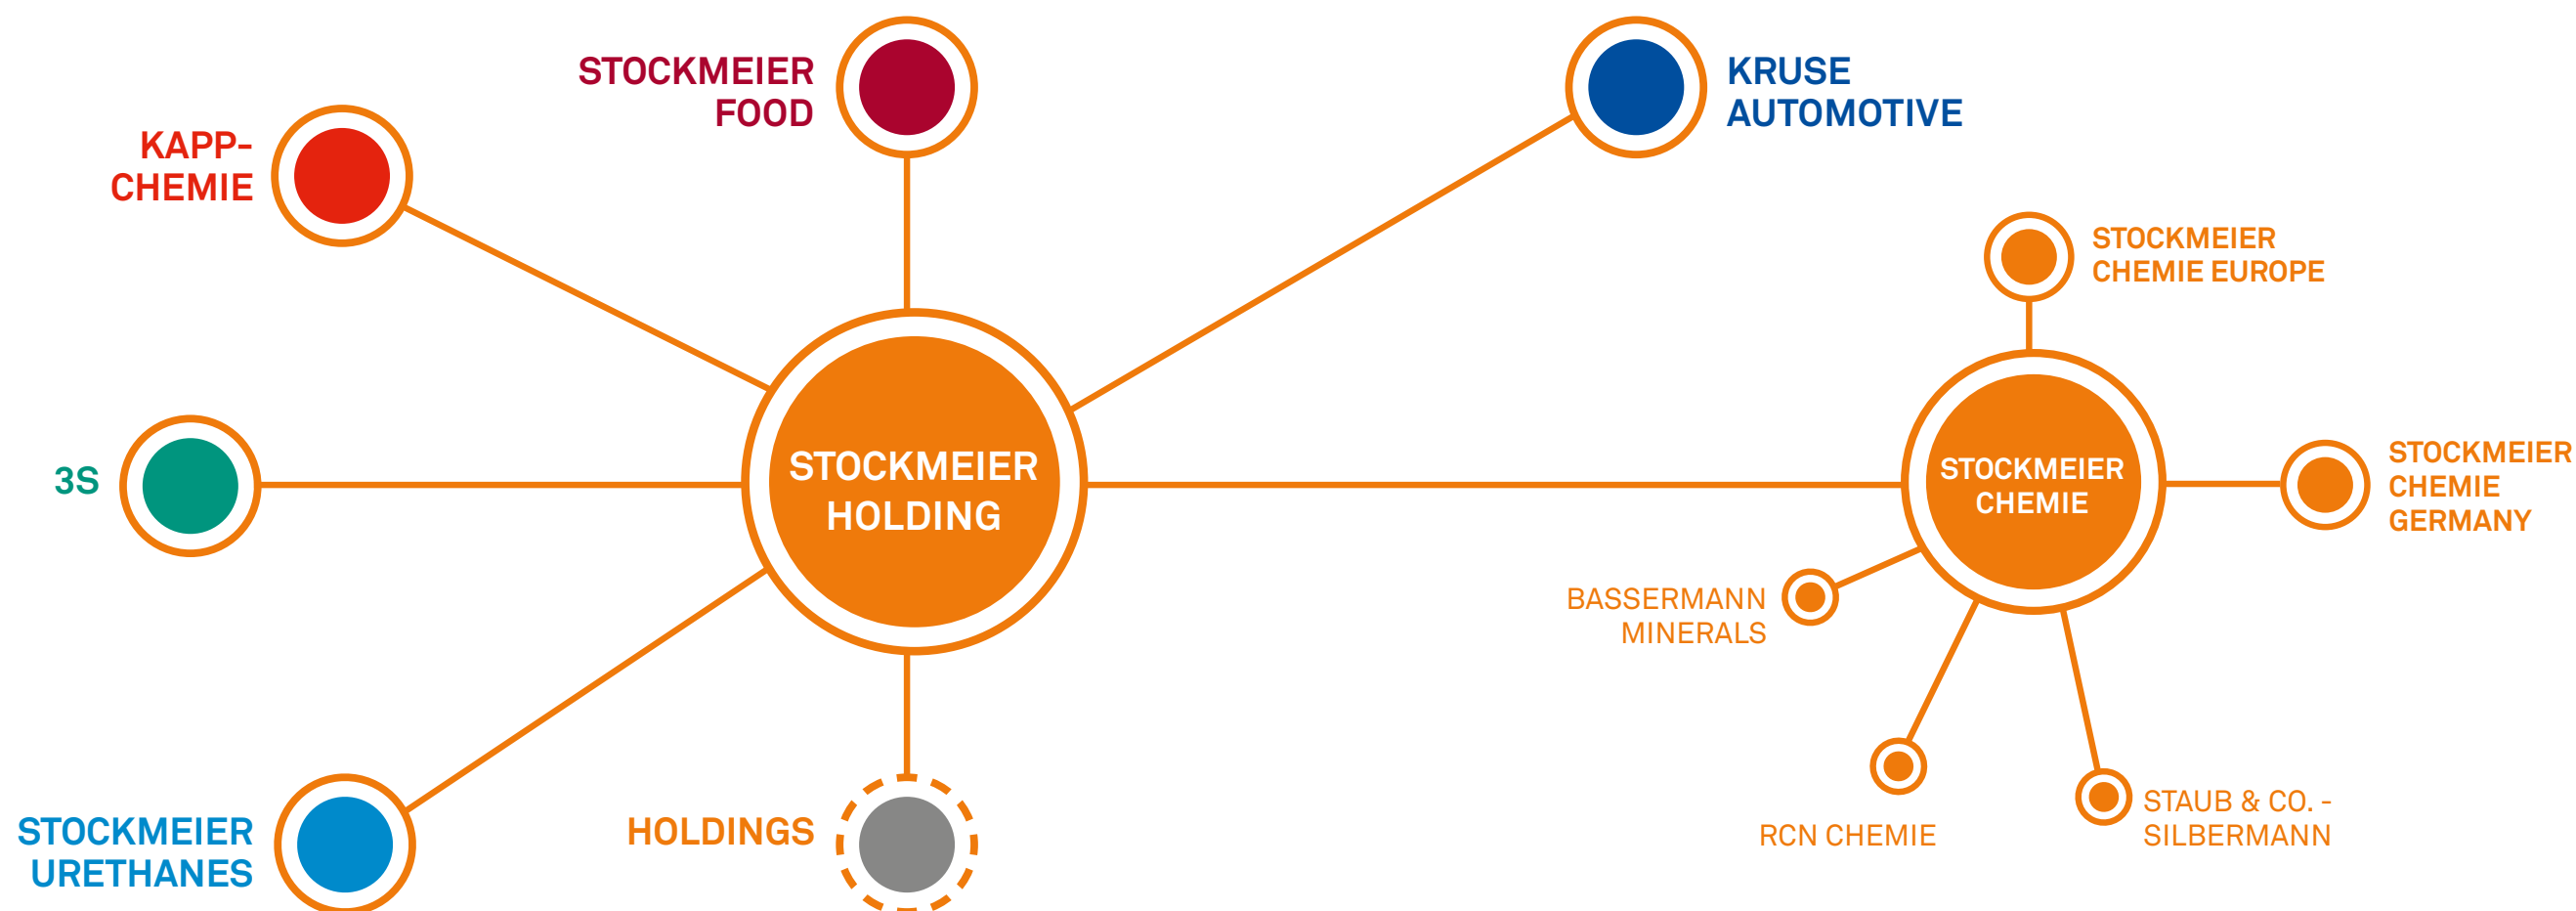

Peter Stockmeier,
Managing shareholder of STOCKMEIER Holding

»Strong and sustainable relations with our customers and suppliers are in focus for us.«

They are the cornerstone of our success and without them the development of this company to the STOCKMEIER Group of today would not have been possible. This is reason enough for us at STOCKMEIER to redouble our efforts and hold up our high principles as family business. And we will fill our partners with enthusiasm about what we do and in this way strengthen our links with them even more. Also to make this family business a successful business in future.

Links thrive on nearness

Why our understanding of nearness goes further

As the STOCKMEIER Group grew, the number of locations increased dramatically. With 44 production and distribution locations in nine countries today, we are very near to most of our partners. For us, the awareness of what our customers and suppliers really need, i.e., the nearness to their markets, is more important to us. Therefore, for us, nearness also has a content related aspect.

Of course, physical proximity to our partners is important. This was one of the reasons why we set up many new locations in recent years. In the meantime, we supply the products our customers order and provide a variety of services to them from 25 production, distribution and sales locations in Germany.

We provide the same services for our international customers from 19 locations in eight countries other than Germany. This also means a high level of safety of supplies from large local warehousing capacities.

- Physical proximity with 44 locations in 9 countries throughout the world

- High safety of supply from large local warehouses
- Content-based proximity by intensively addressing the individual issues our partners are faced with

Most important, however, is content-related and mutual personal understanding. We want to understand the specific problems and challenges of our customers and suppliers. This means: We attentively listen to our partners and try to learn from them. This enables us to comply with your requirements very precisely.

This gives double reassurance to our customers: We offer highest reliability of supply because we are never far from any of them and maintain large local warehouse capacities. And we are near to them in all matters of content because we concern ourselves intensively with their individual problems, which enables us to respond to customer requirements very quickly. We will stick to this understanding of nearness also in future.

- Nearness strengthens links
